

SIIA's Education Division provides the insight and analysis members need to make business sense of the latest policies, trends and new business models. Members receive actionable market intelligence by:

- Attending SIIA conferences and webcasts

Ed Tech Business Forum : Connect with senior managers from all sectors of the Ed Tech industry at the premier business and finance conference in the industry.

Ed Tech Industry Summit : More than 300 attendees participate in three tracks covering: business & finance; sales & marketing; and technical & development issues.

Member Breakfasts at industry trade shows: SIIA adds value to your time spent at industry events by organizing member breakfasts where you can connect with peers and partners.

Webcasts and Audiocasts - Frequent updates through webcasts or roundtable conference calls keep members informed. Join us live, or review our archives.

- Receiving SIIA reports, white papers, alerts and newsletters

The Experts' Guide to the K-12 School Market - This "how to" book is a compilation of advice from some of the education industry's most respected leaders.

TrendsWatch Briefs and Trends Reports - Quarterly briefs and annual reports cover timely topics, such as the role of states in education, online learning and mobile devices.

SIIA Ed Tech Daily - A daily news roundup covering K-12 and postsecondary markets, member blogs, job openings and member press releases.

- Receiving SIIA's timely legal and regulatory policy alerts and briefings on topics ranging from No Child Left Behind, to the impact of the federal stimulus on education.

Ed Tech Government Forum - Provides unique insights into the newest federal initiatives shaping the Ed Tech market and businesses.

Education & Workforce Development Committee - Stay abreast of the many legislative and policy initiatives impacting the ed tech market.

