

SLIA supports a comprehensive, life-long learning strategy to prepare our citizenry with the knowledge and skills necessary for 21st Century success. Public policies should support: (1) integration of technology into education and training to provide anytime, anywhere and individualized learning; and (2) education and training in computing, mathematics, engineering and the sciences to meet our high-tech workforce needs.

Documents:

Translating Public Policy into Market Intelligence
Government Regulations & Policy Reform
Government Funding & Programs
General Ed-Tech Policy